It is also our recommendation that you slow your machine down by changing the pulley to a smaller size as the faster you go the hotter the needle will get causing the thread to constantly break, miss stitching and broken needles. Remember if you change the Pulley to a smaller size you will have to change the belt to suit, Please use the below chart when changing the Pulley. If we don't have a listing for the name, please use the search function to see if there is any mention of it on our site. A quarterly magazine and access to our annual sewing machine auction are but two membership benefits. It is called a top, bottom, and needlefeed machine because the material is pulled by the bottom feed dogs, top presser foot, and the needle all at the same time. It is designed for heavy home decor material, leather and upholstery. The 206 has made minor changes over the last fifty years, but most of the parts are exactly the same. The Consew is now more affordable than the Juki brand upholstery machines ever since it moved its manufacturing from Japan to China. So if you are still looking for a Japanese-made machine, we suggest you take a look at the Juki machines. Check back later! <http://www.rzeczoznawcy.pl/galeria/98-fxstc-manual.xml>

Any other forums out there specifically on Consew machines. Thanks for your help ! Check your thread path and make sure the tension assembly is functioning properly. When the foot is up, the thread tension should be released. Make sure you are threading the machine when the foot is up so that you are getting the thread deep within the plates. Is there a special thread I should use. Im using upholstery thread I found in sewing box. Dont know if theres different thread required for industrial machines vs regular machines vs hand sew. Thanks again You also need to be sure that the needle size is appropriate to the thread size. Can you give me details on either Heres pic of bottom side The bobbin thread seems like just going straight. Looking at manual, this suggests the upper thread tension is too low. Thanks for your help ! You need more upper tension. Your needle and thread size should be fine. I assume this is for an indoor sewing project. If not, we need to get you a proper outdoor rated thread.
