There are also comfortgrip handles, making it easy to carry to the buffet table. Great coffee, cup after cup..now that's Good Thinking. just add ground coffee and water There's no lever to pull or button to hold, simply place any size cup against the coffee dispensing bar and press until your cup is full. BrewStation also features a dual heater system that keeps coffee tasting fresh cup after cup. Simply slide the cup against the bar and hold until the cup is full. In a busy buffet line, that means cups can be filled faster, saving time and reducing crowding. Disposable cups are never a problem, either the dispensing button was designed to work with foam as well as classic ceramic cups. For added convenience, the dispensing area has a higher cup clearance than most urns and the drip tray removes for easy cleaning. The last drops of a 40cup coffee urn have rarely tasted as good until now. <http://www.cherednik.com/images/cressi-edy-manual.xml>

In the BrewStation urn, a powerful center heater brews the entire tank quickly 45 seconds per cup versus the normal 60 seconds. Once brewed, the center heater shuts down and a gentle, keepwarm heater maintains a perfect temperature without scorching the coffee. Coffee tastes great longer, from the first cup to the last. My guests kept complaining to me that it was difficult to press the dispenser with the cup and if they used their fingers, they would burn themselves. I had to have a glass mug to dispense the coffee and then serve from mug to styrofoam cups. The coffeemaker did brew great coffee and it did maintain its temperature but the onehand feature is not practical if you cant use styrofoam cups. This is simply a hot water heater. You can cook Ramen in it if you want to. Has a stem and basket if you want to make coffee. I use mine for a rooming house. I notice the slight lack of freshness but never had any complaints. Started using a paper filter as sometimes grounds get in the pot and slow the dispenser mechanism. This is the best coffee maker I have had here over the last 10 years. I ordered 2 of these pots to provide coffee for my friends and family at an event. They BOTH failed and stopped working on the VERY first day of use. Leaving me in a huge bind. The first pot brewed one pot and then when I tried to make a second the light immediately came on as if it was already done brewing, alas it was nothing but hot water. When I called customer support they needed the product Model and Batch numbers, which are located on the bottom.

I explained to the customer service rep that it was full of HOT water and I was just looking for help to get it working. She would not help me until I had that info so if you intend on buying this product even afer reading this review, write those numbers down first. The second pot brewed 2 pots, then because the first pot failed I tried to brew a third and the pot would not even turn on. The only way to fix the problems I had was to replace them they made me cut the power cords and send in pictures. The representatives were so complacent with the routine of telling customers to cut the cord of products that it did not warm me with confidence. Hamilton Beach products must be so crappy they must tell everyone to cut the cords ALL THE TIME. These particular pots are a discontinued product and the only replacement is a cheaper model. 2 day shipping through Amazon to receive the first crappy pots, a 7 to 10 day wait for the cheaper replacement which I still paid full price for. Ridiculous. If there is one thing I know. do not keep people without coffee and the second thing. NEVER BUY HAMILTON BEACH PRODUCTS AGAIN. Not impressed. It heats up nicely and keeps the water hot, but not too hot. I prefer the water even hotter, but the temperature is perfect for a crowd with kids and adults for hot cocoa. The nohands push button is a little difficult to use without 2 hands. It needs to be a little higher and easier to push. Two hands make the job easier, which defeats the purpose of having a nohands pushbutton hence the 4 stars. The fact that she said they could easily push for coffee, even with Styrofoam cups, was a clincher for me. We use regular coffee cups, but have many elderly people helping themselves. Turns out my crew is telling me its the best investment weve made so far in our community kitchen. We have two one for decaf and one for regular. They brew in under 30 minutes. No filter needed. Worth every penny.

Rented something similar for an event which worked well and decided to get our own. Have used it a few times and it is wonderful. Fairly quick to brew. It was so successful at a friends house where we brought it that they decided to order their own. It words well with paper cups used on the fill lever as long as they are relatively study cups. The product information or the reviews seemed to suggest that this one would work. That may be true, but only if you use waterbased hot chocolate. If you use milkbased hot chocolate, it clogs up and you have to use a dipper. It works for coffee, of course, but I already had a coffee maker that is better looking than this one. So now I have a duplicate appliance. No real gain, as long as I want to make hot chocolate from milk. It takes about 40 to 50 minutes to brew a full 40 cups so certainly requires some time to do its job but the quality of the coffee produced is quite good and quite hot and it kept it hot for the entire 6 hours until I unplugged it. Only downside, there is no reader to indicate how much is left in the canister so you either need to remove the lid and take a peek which isnt easy because the coffee basket is in the way or simply wait for it to run dry. Shorter than the average urn, which I love. Love the recessed spout so it is not accidentally left in the open position. Great for not only coffee but hot water for tea, hot cocoa, instant soup etc. Keeps the water or coffee very hot. I bought this to host a shower for my daughter. It is so easy to use and keep clean. The coffee tastes great for hours on end. No burned taste and no oils from the warming. It was wonderful to be able to fill a cup with just one hand. The coffee also stayed hot to everyone's amazement. Easy to clean Have only had this a short time so have only used it twice so far. So far I love it. It is easy to use and easy to clean. Used it for a family gathering and a baby shower. At both events I had comments on how good the coffee tasted and how sleek the machine looks. Coffee stayed hot without tasting burnt. My wife and I needed a coffee urn that would brew 30 or more cups of coffee for a family get together we were going to host. We recently purchased a Hamilton Beach flex brew coffee maker that we are very happy with. Because of this purchase we decided to go with the Hamilton Beach 40 cup brew station and we are once again happy with the purchase. Looks good. brews quickly and holds the temp. Did take 20 min to finish like book said. I would use this for family gatherings.

I have had the pleasure of trying to brew from 10 to 40 cups of coffee and what surprised me was the quality and taste was the same as brewing 10 or 40 cups. Great for parties, get togethers or just for your own enjoyment. The other thing I enjoyed was that you did not have to hold anything down to get the coffee, just put your cup where the spout is, press and enjoy your coffee, the red light will tell you when it is done. Easy to clean and stored. You can, if you like, use a filter or not. It works well, and it's beautiful to look at. I think it would be great if it had a longer cord, as power strips are not always available. This is important, especially since it's the type of appliance that I'll use for parties. Very professional looking, easy for people to get coffee just push your cup into the button and the coffee flows. No handles to turn on or buttons to hold in with your hands, your cup does it all by pushing the button in with your cup. This is great no mess from juggling cup with coffee and trying to turn off handle. It is great for a family get together, parties and meetings. You can make 10 to 40 cups at a time. All you have to do is while your setting up put the water in for the cups you want to make and the coffee of course and plug it in. When your event starts your coffee will be ready it takes between 20 to 40 minutes depending of amount of cups you are making. Couldn't be any easier. How do I prevent this Because they expand, they stop up the brew basket and prevent the grounds from falling through the basket and into the water. Download Adobe Acrobat software Had to replace the actual push nozzle behind the dispensing bar on the tank after it broke. Then the conducting pins on the tank and base went bad would not brew and had to send the whole unit back for repair, at my expense for shipping. Hamilton Beach kept it for 3 weeks. Finally I called, they said they could not repair and would send a new one another week. 4 months later had to replace the nozzle again I ordered an extra this time. Put the new nozzle on and now the conducting pins seem to not be working again. This BrewStation looks great and is heavy duty, but I am not even going to return it it is too expensive.

HB customer service was very difficult to work with. Do not buy! We're sorry this didn't work well for you. Please remember our Customer Solutions team is happy to help should you have any issues. It started leaking after about 10 months of use, so we shipped it back at a high cost because it is huge. Then it started leaking again. They sent us a new part that worked for a day then it started leaking. The new piece of junk is still under warranty so I am shipping it back and they will send us a new one. Its a matter of principle because we really dont want another one. When that one goes, we will never buy Hamilton Beach again. Pure junk. Wish I could give it zero stars. We wish this urn would have worked out for you. Please remember our Customer Solutions team is happy to help should you have any issues. We bought it in November and the nozzle went bad in February. It took more than a month to get a simple nozzle replacement to us. When we finally received it and installed it it went bad in less than one week. At that point I wanted to take the unit into the middle of the street and crush it with the sludge hammer !! But webstaurant did give us a full refund. I would use Webstaurant again to buy products but I will never again buy a Hamilton Beach product. If you ever have problems with HB my advice to you is take a deep breath and keep on it. If you still have a working warrantee Hamilton Beach eventually has to do right by you !! Good Luck. We are sorry to hear this coffee urn did not work well for you and leaked. Our customer service team was happy to help and resolve this issue for you. It will be perfect for our restaurant. It is very wellmade and crafted. It looks beautiful and customers will love it. This product is very, very sturdy. The removable tank makes it easier and safer to fill and clean the electrical housing stays on the counter. We also like the builtin drip tray and decaf indicator.
